Another Crisis Passes

The United States received from the Carranza government on Wednesday formal permission to use the railroads of Mexico for the purpose of transporting supplies to the army now pursuing Villa and his bandits.

Just how great a handicap the inability to use the railroads imposed upon the officers and men of the punitive expedition, now more than one hundred and fifty miles south of the border, and pursuing Villa relentlessly, can scarcely be appreciated by the inexperienced.

Not wholly did the inability to use the railroads seriously retard the forward movements of the troops, but it brought about an actual shortage of provisions for both men and horses and when we stop to consider that the country through which our troops are rapidly passing, is devoid of food stuffs for men and with scant or no vegetation for the horses, the necessity for provision carriers becomes more apparent.

Our troops are traversing a desert country and it is necessary to bring all provisions from the rear. The granting of permission by Carranza relieves a situation that was growing in tenseness. General Pershing and his flying cavalry are hot on the trail of Villa, according to authentic reports, and are in no humor to be halted. They are determined to overhaul the bandit chief and the fact that he is fleeing south at a faster rate than that ever assumed by any retreating Mexicans shows that he appreciates the reriousness of his position. Any delay would be a welcome aid to Villa.

He had counted, perhaps, on the waste country proving insufficient to maintain the United States troops. He had counted, doubtless, on the lapse of time necessary to obtain permission to use the railroads, but the wily bandit did not count on the troops of the United States plunging boldly into the desert wastes, traveling south away from their supply base faster than he could flee from justice which is certain to overtake him.

The action of Carranza seems to have removed the last obstacle which lay across the path of Villa's pursuers and quiets the pessimistic ones who have feared that Carranza would not "tote fair" with the United States.

It relieves a disturbing condition.

Civil Service in Ohio

Two years and more of experience with a civil service law n state affairs has been anything but satisfactory in its results in the public work.

There is much to be said in favor of true civil service and even in state and municipal affairs, if fairly and squarely adhered to and kept out of politics it should produce good resuits. The great trouble with civil service in Ohio is the disposition of politicians to make of it an aid to and a part of political schemes. The result has been confusion and expense disarrangement, disorder and dissatisfaction all around.

The latest example of just how civil service does not Work in Ohio, notwithstanding the constitutional amendment dopted by the people and the costly commission which maintained to execute impartially the civil service laws, is furnished by the action of Governor Willis in refusing to ap-Move the appointment of three individuals to places in the Public service under the Industrial Commission.

Under the civil service examination the three individuals Passed with the highest grade and there was nothing left for the commission to do save certify them for appointment. The appointing board was bound to appoint them under the law, and the appointments made.

But right at that point came the rub. The three aplointees differed in political preferences with the governor and his approval was withheld and another examination was ordered. The three partisans of the governor were retained in Office "provisionally" and the three civil service eligibles eere kept out.

That action gives the political friends of the governor an- Gay street, Columbus, Ohio, ther trial and holds them in the service pending the outcome the test.

That's one reason and the main reason why civil service 1 Ohio is unpopular.

No wonder the people of the state regret they ever heard sneh a law. Politicians regard it as a bulwark created es ecially for their benefit—all for them and all against the ther fellow-and act accordingly.

Washington, March 30 .- Democrats of the house in party caucus went on record in favor of government owner ship of all plants engaged in the manvfacture of ordnance and munitions of war. The vote was unanimous.

The caucus was held for the purpose of committing the party in the house to the senate bill appropriating $11,000,000 for the purchase or construction of a government armor plate

A resolution offered by Representative Keating of Colorado, expressing it as the sense of the caucus that it favored the principle of government ownership, was defeated. A substitute proposed by Representative Garner of Texas, providing that all government ownership propositions re lating to munition making should be made in order on appropriation bills dealing with the army and navy questions, was adopted by unanimous vote. Champ Clark. speaker of the house, made an address in which he advocated government ownership of munition plants.

Representative Taggart of Kansas made a speech in which he quoted President Wilson as an advocate of government ownership of such institutions. Mr. Taggart's assertion as to the president was not contradicted. From the novel by Mary Roberts Rinehart

It is as well that an All-Wisc Providence has forbid den us the power to peer into the future. Otherwise Aunt Ray Innes would never have had the fortitude to withstand the ordeal of "The Circular Staircase." Had this extraordinary woman even imagined what was to occur when she leased "Sunnyside," the summer home owned by Banker Paul Armstrong, she would have severed her strong right arm before she would have taken her beloved nephew and niece, Halsey and Gertrude, into its forbidding confines.

An Important Style Event_

"DRESS-UP" WEEK!

E are in the midst of the real style event of the early spring. "Dress-up" finds a literal translation in this store. The spirit is infectious, the entire store is endeavoring to carry out this idea. In all departments you will find that special preparations have been made for the showing of all that is new and good for Spring. You are invited to see the final dictates of the accepted style authorities.

Misses Suits and Dresses

Are given the prominence today, for a greater display than at any time in the season is now possible. Here are Suits with smart flare jackets, straight boxy jackets, and all effects becoming to young women. Dresses of both Crepe de Chine and Taffeta in sweeping side drapery effects, as well as very new coat styles.

Smart Dress for Children

Little girls' styles, the very ones that you would delight to have your children wear. Some are intended for school, and some for dress occasion. All are quite the newest and nicest of girls' fashions.

Wash Goods—What Wonders of Designing and Weaving Are Shown in the new Cotton Fabrics

Cotton fabrics have been steadily growing more beautiful, designing and weaving have been even more progessive than the public's apprecition. Today our WASH AND WHITE GOODS SECTION is the chief rival of our wonderous silk shop.

New Wash Suits for Your Boy

There is a distinct difference between your boy and other boys, so we have Wash Suits of individuality and the illustration represents just a few of the good styles.

It is very important of course that they should have style, but above all else, good materials, fast colors, and wearability. And so we have selected the most boyish boy suits we could find.

Draperies to Give An Air of Spring

The home takes on a new brilliancy with sunlight playing into nooks and corners, long hidden by the clouds of winter. There are many soft, rich Draperies in colors of the fresh beauties of Spring. Now is the time to make selections from a well selected and complete stock.

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from inchinent danger on a scenie railroad by George Storm, a newsboy. Grown to young womanhood, Helen saves Storm, now a fireman, her father, and his friends hamos Rhinelander, financier, and Robert Seagrue, promoter, from a threatened colision. Safebreakers employed by Seagrue isteal General Holmes' survey plans of the steal General Holmes' survey plans of the cut-off line for the Tidewater, fatally wound the general and escape. Helen recovers the survey plans from Sea-Helen recovers the survey plans from her, finds an accidentally made proof of the survey blueprint. Storm is employed by Rhinelander. Spike and his confederate safebreakers steal Rhinelander's pay roll money. Helen pursues and, with a policeman's aid, captures two of them and recovers the money. Spike, befriended by Helen, in his turn saves her and the right-of-way contracts when Seagrue kidnaps her.

Cutting off the engine as soon as they had accomplished this, Seagrue's men pulled away with the stolen locomotive and left the coach just where it abruptly stopped when the air went on, with the intention of putting as many miles as possible between the coachload of deputies and Rhinelander's chances for defending the right of

Helen understood the necessity for prompt action. But how, she asked herself as she looked anxiously from herself as she looked anxiously from the office window up and down the yards, to help them quickly? Her eye lighted on the little roundhouse away down at the lower end of the

Resting within the friendly shade of its north wall she espied the crazy old yard switch engine, known irreverently among the switchmen as "Soda Water Sal." Soda Water Sal took her disreputable nickname from the fact of her misfortune in being crusted white a good part of the time with alkali

of her speed down the platform and Bernstorif Says Sussex Struck across the yard to rouse the crew and get them to carry her to Rhinelander. But though Soda Water Sal stood as peaceful as an old Dobbin munching her noonday repast, the switching crew was nowhere to be found. Beyond a doubt, Helen felt, they were British mine and not a German suball down town, eating their dinners, and to find them quickly was out of the question. She called out a few times, hardly hoping for a response, and none met her ears. There was steam up, and without loss of time Helen climbed into the cab, and, open- here following the arrival of Count ing the throttle, gave Sal steam. A venerable mare, struck, in the midst sador. of her lunch, with a whip, could not have been more startled than the old engine at Helen's summons. Soda Water Sal started and trembled.

Helen touched her heels again. No such sight as she made was ever before seen on the main line of the reason for discussing it with the Copper Range & Tidewater. If Soda Water Sal had been dancing a two-

Another Crisis Passes

The United States received from the Carranza government on Wednesday formal permission to use the railroads of Mexico for the purpose of transporting supplies to the army now pursuing Villa and his bandits.

Just how great a handicap the inability to use the railroads imposed upon the officers and men of the punitive expedition, now more than one hundred and fifty miles south of the border, and pursuing Villa relentlessly, can scarcely be appreciated by the inexperienced.

Not wholly did the inability to use the railroads seriously retard the forward movements of the troops, but it brought about an actual shortage of provisions for both men and horses and when we stop to consider that the country through which our troops are rapidly passing, is devoid of food stuffs for men and with scant or no vegetation for the horses, the necessity for provision carriers becomes more apparent.

Our troops are traversing a desert country and it is necessary to bring all provisions from the rear. The granting of permission by Carranza relieves a situation that was growing in tenseness. General Pershing and his flying cavalry are hot on the trail of Villa, according to authentic reports, and are in no humor to be halted. They are determined to overhaul the bandit chief and the fact that he is fleeing south at a faster rate than that ever assumed by any retreating Mexicans shows that he appreciates the reriousness of his position. Any delay would be a welcome aid to Villa.

He had counted, perhaps, on the waste country proving insufficient to maintain the United States troops. He had counted, doubtless, on the lapse of time necessary to obtain permission to use the railroads, but the wily bandit did not count on the troops of the United States plunging boldly into the desert wastes, traveling south away from their supply base faster than he could flee from justice which is certain to overtake him.

The action of Carranza seems to have removed the last obstacle which lay across the path of Villa's pursuers and quiets the pessimistic ones who have feared that Carranza would not "tote fair" with the United States.

It relieves a disturbing condition.

Civil Service in Ohio

Two years and more of experience with a civil service law m state affairs has been anything but satisfactory in its results in the public work.

There is much to be said in favor of true civil service and even in state and municipal affairs, if fairly and squarely adbered to and kept out of politics it should produce good resuits. The great trouble with civil service in Ohio is the disposition of politicians to make of it an aid to and a part of Political schemes. The result has been confusion and expense, disarrangement. disorder and dissatisfaction all around.

The latest example of just how civil service does not Work in Ohio, notwithstanding the constitutional amendment idopted by the people and the costly commission which maintained to execute impartially the civil service laws, is furnished by the action of Governor Willis in refusing to ap-Prove the appointment of three individuals to places in the Public service under the Industrial Commission.

Under the civil service examination the three individuals Passed with the highest grade and there was nothing left for the commission to do save certify them for appointment. The appointing board was bound to appoint them under the law, and the appointments made.

But right at that point came the rub. The three ap-Pointees differed in political preferences with the governor and his approval was withheld and another examination was ordered. The three partisans of the governor were retained in Office "provisionally" and the three civil service eligibles Fere kept out.

That action gives the political friends of the governor another trial and holds them in the service pending the outcome of the test.

That's one reason and the main reason why civil service a Ohio is unpopular.

No wonder the people of the state regret they ever heard of such a law. Politicians regard it as a bulwark created esbecially for their benefit—all for them and all against the other fellow-and act accordingly.

REVEALS STAND CAUCUS

Resolution Offered by Garner of Texas Relating to Munition Making Is Adopted by Unanimous Vote-Government Ownership of Plants Advocated by Speaker Clark and

Washington. March 30 .- Democrats of the house in party caucus went on record in favor of government ownership of all plants engaged in the manvfacture of ordnance and munitions of war. The vote was unanimous.

The caucus was held for the purpose of committing the party in the house to the senate bill appropriating $11,000,000 for the purchase or construction of a government armor plate

A resolution offered by Representative Keating of Colorado, expressing it as the sense of the caucus that it favored the principle of government ownership, was defeated. A substitute proposed by Representative Garner of Texas, providing that all government ownership propositions relating to munition making should be made in order on appropriation bills dealing with the army and navy questions, was adopted by unanimous vote. Champ Clark, speaker of the house, made an address in which he advocated government ownership of munition plants.

Representative Taggart of Kansas made a speech in which he quoted President Wilson as an advocate of government ownership of such institutions. Mr. Taggart's assertion as to the president was not contradicted. The Garner substitute was supported by Representative Hay, chairman of blackmail and conspiracy. the military affairs committee.

Helen understood the necessity for prompt action. But how, she asked herself as she looked anxiously from the office window up and down the yards, to help them quickly? Her eye lighted on the little roundhouse away down at the lower end of the

Resting within the friendly shade of its north wall she espied the crazy old yard switch engine, known irold yard switch engine, known ir-reverently among the switchmen as "Soda Water Sal." Soda Water Sal took her disreputable nickname from the fact of her misfortune in being crusted white a good part of the time with alkali

The excited girl dashed at the top of her speed down the platform and Bernstorif Says Sussex Struck across the yard to rouse the crew and get them to carry her to Rhinelander. But though Soda Water Sal stood as peaceful as an old Dobbin munching her noonday repast, the switching crew was nowhere to be found. Cleveland, March 30 .- An investigation into the cause that led to one of the most disastrous wrecks that have occurred in this state in a doznistory of the New York Central system has been commenced by federal spective of the long tangent that sepand state officials and officials of the railroad company. A total of thirty persons were killed and forty or more injured in the wreck.

None the less hearty, came together in collision near Amhowever, was her welcome, and when herst, thirty-seven miles from Cleveface at the cab window a chorus of Reports generally credited were that the first and second sections of No. 86 were proceeding at a rapid rate and at some points were only a mile or so apart. When the second section crashed into the first section, the Twentieth Century plowed into the wreckage of the other trains, which bulged over from the parallel tracks, and the three were thrown irto an indescribable mass.

The great coaches and engines of No. 86 toppled over and wreckage was oiled 30 feet in the air. Two cars were smashed to junk. Fourteen coaches overturned.

The Twentieth Century, notwithstanding its impact with the debris from the other trains, was not greatly damaged and soon resumed its westward journey, its passengers were not injured, except for a severe shaking up.

A pall of fog from Lake Erie had settled down over northern Ohio and the night was almost of inky darkness. This, with the alleged failure of a towerman to do his duty under the rules, was ascribed by some of the railroad officials as the cause of the wreck. The towerman, it was said, had been without sleep most of the time since Sunday night, his wife being ill and requiring his attention when he was not on duty.

Indescribable Scenes.

Scenes of terrible confusion follow ed the crash. Many of the injured. pinioned in the wreckage, called piteously for help as uninjured passengers, half clad, quickly emerged from the sleepers and joined with trainmen and others in the rescue work. A bonfire from some of the wreckage trought the first rays of light on the scene of desolation and death. Firecuss the matter with Washington and men from Amherst were among the first to arrive, and they soon succeeded in quenching the flames. The fire was in the one wooden coach on train No. 86, now known as the "death coach," because of the fact that most of the casualties occurred

The wreck occurred shortly after 3 a. m., and it was nearly 4 o'clock when something like organized relief work was established.

Hospitai trains were run from Cleveland, Elyria and Lorain to the scene of the wreck and physicians and ambulances were rushed from all of these points. Hundreds of villagers and farmers from Amherst and vicinity did heroic work in caring for the dead, dying and injured. The little morgue at Amherst was quickly filled. but other buildings were made available to the dead, most of them mangled beyond recognition and some of them so far that identification may never be established. Private homes were also thrown open and many were made use of pending removal of the injured to Elyria and Lorain hospitals.

D. C. Moon, general manger of the New York Central Railroad company. issued the following statement: 'About 3:20 a. m. first No. 86, the Chicago-Pittsburgh passenger train. was stopped at the interlocking tower at Amherst. Shortly after the train started to proceed, and was moving at a speed of about five to ten miles an hour, second No. 86 following, being partly an express train, with the Detroit-Cleveland sleepers, collided with the first section.

of the Twentieth Century limited, one of the three trains in the disastrous hicago. The train plowed through the mass of wreckage and human bodies and literally ground the bodies to pieces, the passengers said in relating thrilling stories of narrow es capes in the smashup.

"There was no fog so far as I could see," said Henry P. Runkel, director of the German-Austro-Hungarian Relief society. "Only the terrific speed of the Century got us through. We tore through the wreckage. Never have I seen such a ghastly sight as that pesented when I got out of our coach. It reminded me of battlefields ir Europe I have recently seen. We went promptly to the rescue.'

Germans Gain Additional Ground Near Verdun.

London, March 30 .- Tae Germans to the northwest of Verdun in an infantry attack have gained additional ground against the French north of Malancourt and have even penetrated the northwest corner of the village.

The attempts of the Teutons to carry their advance farther, however, were stopped by the French fire, as also were three counter attacks against the positions in the Avocourt wood, south of Malancourt, which had previously been taken from them by a French infantry attack. The German official communication says that the advance of the Germans north of Malancourt was over a front of more than a mile.

In mining operations in the Argonne the French have blown up German posts, and between the Olse and the Aisne have dispersed German convoys with their guns. The Germans claim that in hand grenade encounters they recaptured from the British a mine crater at St. Eloi. The British declare they have consolidated all the Ger man lines gained on March 27.

WHY not give your lad the same training?

"When I was a growing lad, and came pon many words in my reading that I did not understand, my mother, instead of giving me the definition when I applied to her, uniformly sent me to the dictionary to learn it, and in this way I gradually learned many things besides the meaning of the individual word in question among other things, how to use a dictionary, and the great pleasure and advantage there might be in the use of the dictionary. Afterwards, when I went to the village school, my chief diversion, after lessons were learned and before they were recited, was in turning over the pages of the 'Unabridged' of those days. Now the most modern Unabridged the NEW INTERNATIONAL gives me a pleasure of the same sort. So far as my knowledge extends, it is at present the best of the one-volume dictionaries, and quite sufficient for all ordinary uses. Even those who possess the splendid dictionaries in several volumes will yet find it a great convenience to have this, which is so compact, so full, and so trustworthy as to leave, in most cases, little to be desired."- Albert S. Kellogg's Products are highly recommended in all cases where a special diet is necessary.

Peanut Butter

Is one of the most nutricious of food products. Nuts and meats have many food properties in common. There are a number of people who cannot eat meat, but who can use peanut butter. Our peanut butter is ground the same day you buy it. It is made from fresh roasted peanuts and comes to you in an air-tight sanitary container.
